

PLATFORM TEAMS

Most start- and scale-ups begin with a great idea. The first customers have been approached and are showing interest. Maybe your first orders are already coming in. Now it is time for the next and perhaps one of the most important steps: assembling a technology team and building the software platform your idea runs on. But that's easier said than done! Fortunately, Wave5 can help.

wave5

Netherlands | Vietnam

Without technical knowledge and experience it is almost impossible to build a good technical solution and set up the right tech team from scratch.

Start-ups often start with young engineers who have little experience in building professional software. As a result, there is a lack of seniority, and the wrong decisions are made. Your momentum dissipates and your progress stagnates. Even though your idea is strong, you won't make real progress if you can't be sure of the quality of the technology & the people who built it.

The solution

Wave5 solves this problem for you. We have the technological knowledge and experience to build professional, reliable, secure and scalable software platforms and know the people who are right for the task. We build a stable and innovative technology team for you with the specific skills needed to help your company grow.

The Wave5 Studio

Your dedicated team will then get to work. Our Wave5 Studio is brimming with energy. We make sure that enthusiastic and talented people start working together on innovative solutions. We create a place where people with a passion for tech can fully exploit and grow their potential. The teams are guided by our CTOs and are continuously challenged to learn. Because when we inspire each other, the best ideas start coming up. And that means you can expect quick and lasting results. Wave5 has multiple hubs worldwide, which not only extends our working days, but also allows our teams to learn from and be influenced by different cultures, getting the best out of everyone.

Adoption

The goal of the Wave5 Platform Teams is that we build your software platform, your platform to perform. And we can imagine that you you would like to adopt that team into your own organization. So, after 24 months, when your platform team has built up all the knowledge and expertise about your software platform and your organization, you have the option to take over the helm and bring your platform team under your own control. To secure the skills and knowledge won't go to waste and will be of use for your future growth.

Services

Wave5 has a lot of knowledge of technology. Also, we know the people with the right understanding of technology. We offer tech talents an inspiring culture in which they continue to grow. Your tech team is composed out of this talent pool. We make sure you will get the specific services and skills needed for your organization. This way the tech team will connect well with your product team. Because naturally, a great collaboration between the two is of great importance. Wave5 will provide a translation from tech to business and vice versa. The CTO Guidance Service is intended to assist in making important C-level decisions and to contribute to the forming of an appropriate vision for the future. The CTO Guidance also works as inspiration for your new tech team.

Photo 1 - Core Services

In summary

- Talent shaped in the Wave5 Studio
- A dedicated team that builds professional software from day one.
- Investments in your company are safer when you are assured of stable tech & software
- After 24 months you will have a professional software platform and a fullfledged technology team that you can manage yourself
- The IP and technical knowledge remain within your organization

Why Wave5

Wave5 has more than 25 years of experience with sales & partner channels, building software, and setting up international teams worldwide. We know what it takes to help ambitious and talented tech-people to get the best out of themselves.

Are you ready for your Platform Team? >