

WAVE5 BRAIN PICKING

Wave5 organizes the Wave5 Brain Picking session on request. Free, and accessible for everyone. Together, we'll spend an hour going over a variety of topics at play in the field of data-driven work or new technology at your organization. We share our knowledge on various topics such as Digital Transformation, Data Analytics, AI and Machine Learning and ask you to share yours as well. This way, we provide new insights for your organization, as well as for ourselves.

Wave5 asks business-oriented questions to discover good ideas:

- What is your strategic focus?
- Is your organization ready to make the digital transformation?
- What are opportunities for Advanced Analytics, AI, and Machine Learning?
- How do these opportunities relate to current and future projects?
- What are the business gains we can achieve?
- What issues need to be addressed?

Customer or no customer, everyone is welcome to join. Because during the Wave5 Brain Picking we like to share our knowledge with anyone who has a question (or questions), is interested in a particular topic, or just needs an inspiring conversation. Enrich your knowledge!

Why?

Why not? This may sound like a lame question. But we think a good conversation with inspired people always leads to something positive. It could be an answer to that one question you've been pondering for a while, a jolt of inspiration for a productive month, or the first step in a new direction for you and your organization.

What does the Wave5 Brain picking provide?

- Inspiration to get started right away
- A start for a roadmap of projects that can be used within your organization
- A clear overview of the current technological developments and insight into the possibilities for your organization
- A dot on the horizon for your organization
- A fun, useful conversation

How?

This free Wave5 Brain Picking takes place on request for one hour via a Microsoft Teams meeting. Sign up via the button below and we'll invite you. See you soon!
